Inland Lake Fishing: A Hidden Gem

Ashtabula County boasts an array of pristine inland lakes that offer secluded fishing experiences. From serene Pymatuning Lake to the hidden gem of Cowles Creek Lake, these waters are teeming with a variety of species.

* Walleye: Cast your line in Conneaut Lake or Lake Wilhelm for a chance to hook into elusive walleye. * Bass: Head to Pymatuning Lake or Shenango River Lake for some of the best bass fishing in the state. * Crappie: Explore the shallow waters of East Reservoir or Lake Milton for an abundance of crappie.

Lake Erie: A Vast Angling Frontier

Lake Erie is a vast expanse of water that offers endless fishing opportunities. From trolling for walleye to jigging for perch, there's something for every angler.

* Walleye: The Ashtabula area is renowned for its exceptional walleye fishing. Try trolling near the Walnut Creek reef or jigging in the Cleveland Harbor. * Steelhead: In the colder months, steelhead make their way up the Grand River and Conneaut Creek, providing anglers with thrilling battles. * Perch: Perch are abundant throughout Lake Erie. Cast a line near the Ashtabula Harbor or along the shoreline for a chance to catch a limit.

Floating the Streams

Ashtabula County is home to several scenic rivers that offer a unique way to experience fishing. Float down the Grand River or Conneaut Creek and cast your line for trout, bass, and walleye.

* Grand River: The Grand River is a popular destination for float fishing. Start at Harpersfield Dam and float downstream for a chance to catch various species, including steelhead. * Conneaut Creek: Conneaut Creek is another excellent choice for float fishing. Launch your boat at Spring Creek Park and drift through the scenic gorge.
